

We Weep In Faith

We weep in faith that soon we'll weep no more
Assured it's but a moment now before
We will see Christ - the hope in whom we died.
We will see Christ, where hope is satisfied.
Awak'ning then from life to life, through death,
We'll breathe of Christ upon earth's final breath.

We follow Christ, who did not fear the tomb,
And know when he stands in our dying room,
"Laz'rus, come forth!" we'll hear him shout with cries,
Or whisper softly, "Talitha, arise."
The tears that flowed down Jesus' face were shed
In faith that, conquered, death will soon be dead.

Christ, help us bear what burdens now we must,
With constant hope for what you hold in trust.
And help us weep as you taught us to weep,
Knowing each child you've claimed, you'll kindly keep.
Awak'ning then from life to life through death
We'll breathe of Christ upon earth's final breath.
